Methodist Union Recommended by Dixie Conference

General Conference Approves Resolution, With Racial Safeguards

CANNON IS SEATED

Bishop Compares His Trial to Persecution of Saint Paul

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—Union of American Methodists, with protection for racial and national distinctions, was urged Monday by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in adopting a resolution which continued the commission to confer with other branches of Methodism on plans for unity and solidarity.

Just before the vote was taken on the resolution Bishop Cannon entered the auditorium and took a seat on the platform with his fellow bishops. There was no interruption in the mild debate on the adoption of the resolution.

Bishop Cannon came to the conference to fight any attempt of groups of delegates to retire him. His entry was greeted by a faint murmur throughout the conference hall as he was recognized by the delegates.

Compares Self With Saint

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—Sustained applause resounded in the 22nd quadrennial session of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, over the week-end as the church's general conference heard a message from Bishop James Cannon Jr., in which he likened his acquittal in Washington on charges of conspiracy to violate the corrupt practices act to St. Paul's "delivery from the mouth of the lion."

Business sessions in the church's Supreme Council were interrupted for the reading of the message, in which the picturesque bishop advised the conference that he was en route to Jackson. The bishop telegraphed:

"May I say to my brethren and sisters of the General Conference concerning the things which have befallen me that Paul wrote to Timothy from Rome: 'Notwithstanding the Lord stood with me and strengthened me that by me the preaching might be fully known and that all the Gentiles might hear, and I was delivered out of the mouth of the lion and the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work and will preserve me until His Heavenly Kingdom to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.'"

The bishop arrived here Sunday, three days late, to take up his official duties in the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

There was no one at the station to greet him and he walked to his hotel alone. There Bishop Cannon rested undisturbed until after noon, refusing to discuss in any way rumors that certain groups in the conference would seek his voluntary retirement from the College of Bishops at this conference, four years before his retirement would be binding under the automatic 72-year retirement rule.

Cancellation of Gas Refunds Upheld

40 to 90 Per Cent Were Fraudulent in Court's Opinion

Arkansas Highway Refunding Measure Is Held to Be Valid

SURRENDER BONDS

Millions to Be Refunded—Shank Appeal Submitted Monday

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The new highway debt refunding act of the recent special legislative session was upheld by the Arkansas Supreme Court Monday.

Five separate cases raising various questions on the refunding act were decided by the court.

Justice McHenry wrote the opinion, with Justices Smith and Butler dissenting from that part of it which held that the tax on gasoline for industrial and agricultural purposes is not a property tax.

The decision was expected by state officials to result in the immediate surrender of millions of dollars worth of outstanding bonds for refunding.

The court said that probably 40 to 90 per cent of industrial and agricultural gasoline tax refunds, which are eliminated by the new act, were fraudulent.

Shank Appeal Submitted

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The appeal of Mark H. Shank, Akron (Ohio) attorney, from his death-sentence conviction for one of four murders with which he was charged in connection with the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Colley and two children at a picnic near Benton last summer, was taken under advisement by the Arkansas Supreme Court Monday for decision probably next Monday, May 7.

U.S. Launches Its Stabilization Fund

Opens With 200 Millions Cash—Reserve 9 Times That Amount

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The United States Treasury formally created a 2-billion-dollar stabilization fund Monday, apparently depositing 200 millions with the Federal Reserve System for active use and holding the remaining 1 billion 800 million in reserve.

"To accomplish the transaction of officially setting up the fund appropriated by congress for guiding the dollar's course in foreign markets the entire 2 billion was carried as 'expended' on April 27.

Treasury officials, however, refused to discuss the step.

Young Business Men to Meet on Monday

The Young Business Men's association will meet at 8 o'clock Monday night in Hope city hall. Syd McMath, secretary, urged a full attendance.

Bulletins

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—State Comptroller Griffin Smith sent auditors to Monticello Monday to begin an audit of the books of the Monticello A. & M. college preparatory to starting an investigation into charges of abuse and mismanagement against officials of the college. Smith said he interviewed some of the complainant students Sunday but would not disclose their testimony until the inquiry is completed, when it will be submitted to Governor Futrell.

NOGALES, Ariz.—(AP)—Bernabe Robles, 73, patriarch of the cattle range, who entered Mexico on a secret mission in connection with the kidnapping of his granddaughter, June Robles, 6, is still somewhere in Mexico, friends announced Monday, despite reports that he had returned home.

Prescott Postal Job to C. A. Smith

First State Bank President Given Nevada County Appointment

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—President Roosevelt Monday nominated C. A. Smith to be postmaster at Prescott, Ark.

For the last 17 years Mr. Smith has been president of the First State Bank at Prescott.

Prior to that he was connected with the banking business in Texarkana and Mena.

Mr. Smith was instrumental in organizing the First National bank at Mena, serving that institution for 17 years as president. Later he moved to Texarkana and was cashier of the old Merchants & Planters bank there four years.

From Texarkana he moved to Prescott. He succeeds Jewel Vick. It will be Mr. Smith's first government position.

Municipal Court Docket Very Light

3 Plead Guilty to Drunkenness in Brief Monday Session

One of the lightest court dockets in weeks faced Judge W. K. Lemley in municipal court Monday morning.

Three defendants pleaded guilty to drunkenness and were fined $10 and costs each. They were: Watson Rhodes, Lee Williams, Dewpus Simms.

Algeron Keith forfeited $10 cash bond on a charge of drunkenness. Two cases were dismissed. One was against Norma Stroud on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. The other was against O. R. Nichols, charged with unlawful overdraft.

Well Known Lumberman Reported in Critical Condition

J. L. Jamison, well known Hope lumber man and sawmill operator, was seriously ill Monday at his home on South Main street.

Mr. Jamison was stricken with illness Friday, his condition becoming acute Sunday. Relatives from Little Rock and Tulsa, Okla., are attending his bedside.

Reports from his home Monday afternoon said he was growing weaker.

Pelley's Plan to "Save" U. S. Has 75,000 Military Members

Willis Thornton, NEA Service Writer, Tells of Secret Order Which Hope Star Denounced in This City Last Summer

This is the first of three stories describing the aims and activities of the Silver Shirts, a new "Fascist" organization which is endeavoring to gain a foothold in the United States, written exclusively for NEA Service newspapers.

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—In a quiet residential section on the outskirts of this little city that nestles in the hazy foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains is a beautiful two-story Colonial building, almost 100 years old.

Residents know it as the Asheville Club for Women. But it is really the national headquarters of William Dudley Pelley and the Silver Shirts.

Pelley rented the building when the women found themselves unable to carry it through the depression years.

This is the focal point of the newest effort to get America into political shirts. It claims to have enlisted more than 75,000 members.

Here is edited "Liberation," official magazine of the movement, circulation about 9000. Here Pelley conceived the Silver Shirt idea, and here he works when not out on the road visiting local chapters.

Movement Hits Snags
Here he is to return soon to try to straighten out difficulties which have already arisen in the movement, the succession of an important branch in Southern California, and a receivership for Calahad Press, publisher of Liberation.

Mounting the broad, tree-shaded portico, you ring the bell and watch the door swing wide under the hand of a colored servant. You enter a spacious, cool reception room trimmed in Colonial white enamel woodwork.

A reception desk, piled with Silver Shirt literature, stands in one corner. Robert C. Summerville, aide to Pelley and an associate since they were co-workers in Calahad College and the Foundation for Christian Economics, comes into the room in response to your request.

Summerville wears no silver shirt—he is dressed in a powderblue shirt, blue tie, darker blue whitecord breeches.

Despite Rumor of Death, His 'Ghost' Stages Gun Battle

Chicago Officers Lose to Man Who Looks Like the Outlaw

HE IS OVERTAKEN

Police Catch Up With Four—But Are Promptly Disarmed

By the Associated Press
While a rumor spread throughout the Middle West early Monday that John Dillinger was dead, a man who resembled him led a successful gun battle against officers at Bellwood, suburb of Chicago.

A two-mile running fight started when four men in a Ford sedan failed to stop for a red light.

Three policemen gave chase in the face of machine-gun fire from the fleeing car.

Officers overtook the gangsters at a filling station only to be covered by machine-guns and disarmed.

The quartet fled after hitting one of the policemen over the head with a gun.

Rumored He Is Dead

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Federal authorities seeking John Dillinger Sunday night for the first time took cognizance of reports that he might have been slain in his Wisconsin flight.

Melvin H. Purvis, head of the Chicago Bureau of Investigation office, in a statement saying "We are still looking for him," added that the government officers have been "unable to confirm reports that he is dead in Wisconsin."

He made his announcement at the end of a day which brought no new word, he said, of the Indiana desperado's whereabouts.

"No one has reported seeing him," said Purvis; "and no reports have been made by agents on the case."

Ever since the fight last Sunday there have been rumors that one gangster possibly was killed along with the federal agent and CCC workmen. But the great marauder, entering its fifth week Sunday, continued unabated.

Authorities announced that the three young women abandoned last week after the outlaws battled with federal men in a Wisconsin resort, had been identified as Mrs. George Nelson, wife of one of the men; a Miss Delaney, St. Paul sweetheart of Tommy Carroll, another fugitive, and the third as the girl friend of Homer Van Meter, another Dillinger mobster. The women are held by federal officers at Madison, Wis.

Others Sought
Authorities were reported seeking Pat Riley, former St. Paul bartender, as the man who brought Dillinger and John Hamilton, his lieutenant, to Dr. N. C. Mortensen, for treatment after they were wounded in a bank robbery in Sioux Falls, S. D.

Reports current here said the pursuers have up to now 450 individuals, suspected, if possible connections with members of the gang under surveillance. Many are former convicts, on parole or at liberty.

In major sectors of the chase, which started March 3 when Dillinger bluffed his way out of the Crown Point (Ind.) jail, and was intensified by last Sunday's shooting fray which left two dead and four wounded, belief persisted that the band had split into two or more groups.

In northern Minnesota search for George (Baby Face) Nelson, the machine gunner blamed for the slaying of W. Carter Baum, federal agent, last Sunday night, was continued.

Science Kills Dog, Brings Him Back to Life

BERKELEY, Calif.—(AP)—The pink tongue of a dog, revived from death, lapped eagerly at milk was poured into its mouth and Dr. Robert E. Cornish, said this week-end he hoped the animal's increasing strength eventually would enable it to survive and thereby advance his revivification experiment to aid mankind.

Dr. Cornish, young research worker at the University of California, believes his theory of revivification some day may be applied successfully to human beings who have died from heart failure, shock, submersion and asphyxiation.

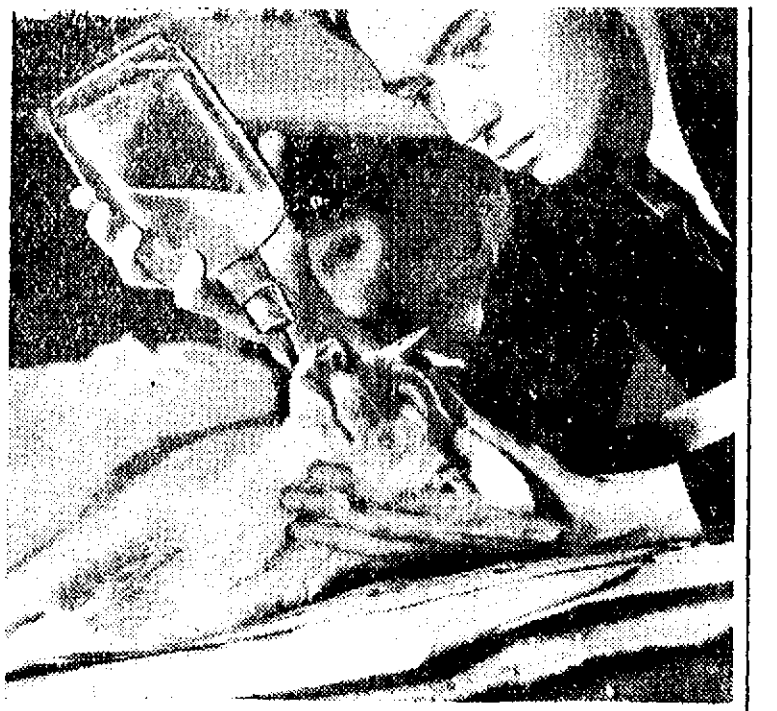

The animal, now known as "13" because it was put to death clinically on Friday, April 13, appears to be in a deep stupor and Dr. Cornish explained the dog has not recovered his mental faculties.

"I hope the dog's brain eventually will become restored to the condition it was before death," Dr. Cornish said.

"The dog was dead four minutes by medical standards. It was asphyxiated, the heart had stopped beating, it ceased to breathe and its blood had halted its circulation. There is no question that the dog was dead."

"Then I injected heparin to start its heart and defibrinated blood into its veins and within a minute its heart was beating, but too rapidly."

This rapid heart movement, which reached 220 beats a minute quickly wore out the hearts of two dogs to which we experimented previously.

Lazarus IV, mongrel terrier, has been brought back from dead, but his brain may have been killed by the operation. Dr. Robert Cornish, California physician, shown here feeding the animal, asphyxiated the terrier April 13 and started to restore life after Lazarus IV had been pronounced dead for four minutes. Using blood, adrenalin, and heparin, he brought the dog back to life, but the brain failed to respond to treatment and the patient may be a "hopeless idiot."

8,400 Return to Work at Cleveland, Paving Way to Peace

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—(AP)—The one-week strike at the Fisher Body plant here, which employs 8,400, will end Monday, union strikers decided at a closed mass meeting Sunday.

By a vote of 1,367 to 10, the strikers decided to go back to their jobs pending outcome of negotiations in Detroit Monday between union officials and Fisher Body executives.

Because the Cleveland strike has been regarded by employers as the key to difficulties in other Fisher Body plants throughout the country, it is believed the union's vote here will be

4 Hope Men Bound Over in Gin Fire

Crosnoe's Bond Fixed at $1,000—Others Placed at $500

Waiving preliminary hearing on arson charges, four Hope men were bound over to the Bradley county grand jury before Justice of the Peace R. N. Godwin at Warren Monday.

The four are: Charles Crosnoe, Jesse Hutson, Thomas Crawford and Chiss Wheaton, the latter a negro. The Star learned in a telephone conversation with the sheriff's office at Warren that bond for Crosnoe was fixed at $1,000. Bonds for the others were fixed at $500 each.

The hearing was held at 10 o'clock Monday morning. Fire Marshal U. A. Gentry and his deputy Ed Trice of Little Rock, both instrumental in tracing a saturated kerosene box from a burned gin site in Bradley county to Hope which led to the arrest here, attended the hearing.

The four are held for burning a cotton gin owned by J. A. Lee, three miles from Banks, Bradley county. The gin was fired the night of April 10.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Foes of Stock Market Bill Play Deep Game in Effort to Kill It... Rebel- lion Is Staged by McKellar... Tokio May Not Be So Astute... Milk Distributors Given Headache by First Lady.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Backstage maneuvers in the fight against the stock market bill, which produced the present wave of propaganda against the "Bain Trust," have fascinated ordinarily blasé insiders.

When you read that the huge Wall Street lobby sought to make the control act more flexible and to kill the section which expressed the intent of Congress, it may have sounded perfectly innocent. Why not?

Well, the fact was that President Dick Whitney of the New York exchange and his pals were simply trying to produce a bill which would be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. Those boys want no regulation.

The more flexible Congress makes a law by allowing large discretion to a federal commission, the more likely the Supreme Court is to murder that law by deciding that Congress has delegated too much legislative power.

And the "intent" section contains an all-important declaration that stock exchange transactions are transactions in interstate commerce.

Precedents indicate that the court would kill the law if it passed without that declaration.

The country has been led to believe that the original 60 per cent margin requirement—cut to 45 per cent in the House bill and left discretionary in the Senate bill—was designed to curb speculation or to protect losing bankers and brokers.

But the real idea of the bill's framers is to prevent the nation's money from being sucked into New York for use as call money at say 12 per cent, instead of remaining at home for loans at 6 or 8.

McKellar Does a Bolt

Senator McKellar of Tennessee became one of the few members who have ignored a White House instruction when he introduced his aimless bill. A few minutes previously, Roosevelt had telephoned to ask that he hold it up pending more consideration. A similar call to the House produced the desired result.

But McKellar was sore. He had been working hard on the bill and insisted on introducing it at once as an administration measure.

It didn't make much difference. McKellar was willing to tack on White House amendments later.

Tokio Not So Astute

The Japanese threat to use force to "preserve peace" in China, directed at other nations, means one of two things, in the private opinion of diplomats here:

1. Japan hopes to blackmail China into recognizing Manchukuo.

2. Take vigorous steps toward establishing a protectorate over China by pushing communications systems on from Manchuria.

In any event, important news is expected from the Far East unless the Japanese government decides the reaction of other powers is too firm. Japan can make China do anything Japan wants if the powers don't stop her. If China recognized Manchukuo, other nations would soon follow.

Confidential reports say the military element in Tokyo has been losing strength and may be planning a coup to re-establish itself.

Incidentally, our officials don't share the popular theory that Japanese diplomacy is singularly astute. They'll whisper in your ear that it frequently seems stupid.

That's how they explain the fact that a foreign office official gave out the latest Japanese blast three times—first as unofficial and not to be quoted; second—when no reaction came from abroad—as official, but not to be quoted; and, finally—when still no reaction came—as official and to be quoted at will.

The Japanese, they feel, were clumsily trying to launch a trial balloon.

A Headache

Mrs. Roosevelt gives certain officials of AAA a headache. They're the group which has sought to soft-pedal earlier theories that profits of middlemen or farm products should be cut. AAA of late has tried to go easy on the distributors.

Mrs. F. D. Smacked the milk companies right between the eyes when, in two recent statements endorsing the AAA Consumers' Council's national survey of milk consumption, she called for cutting milk prices to consumers and raising prices paid to farmers.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Child in New Community Should First Find a Good Companion

We approach May first, moving time in most places, and planting the children in a different world from that one they have known.

It means three things to the children: leaving the playmates they have their world, establishing themselves in a new environment often in a hostile community that resents newcomers, and sitting in a strange school with fifty new faces about them and a teacher to whom they mean, at the moment, little or nothing.

Still, another matter conspires to make their lot harder. Mother will be too busy with papering and painting and curtains and perhaps her seedlings too, to give much attention to the transplanted child and at night dad will be busy with hammer and mallet and the hinges on the garage door to do more than order Johnny to hold the flashlight or hunt for more nails.

The result is that the confused little boy or girl, has no court of appeal or bureau of advice and he fights his battles alone.

A Lone Fight

All children fight all battles alone. It cannot be any other way because life is a peculiarly personal thing for all of us, both young and old. He must use his mind and often his muscle in proving his worth to the intrenched. He stands on his own merit, because children are cruel and almost invariably adopt the spirit of "You've got to show us," before they make room in the ranks and absorb the stranger as one of them.

Everything conspires to make it tough for the recently moved child. Teachers do all they can as a rule to temper the shock. But they are too largely helpless. When they say, "We have a new boy with us and I want you all to be kind to him," Willy Wilkins is likely to wink at Timmy Thomas, which means, "If he thinks he's going to be teacher's pet, we'll even the score at four o'clock. You held my books and I'll roll him in the mud."

And still another thing makes it harder. Where he lived before he was important. He had friends and they were loyal. He learned to regard most children as trustworthy and did not suspect that these very friends of his were often bitterly unfair to the stranger.

He thinks that he will be received on the same footing in the new place and when he is either refused or hazed it comes as a double shock unless he is a thick-skinned youngster who can take it as it comes.

Parental Understanding Helps

The child has to make his own adjustments, of course, but it is a good thing for parents to keep their eyes open and not think that everything that happens is Johnny's fault.

If there is too much championing or interfering, it may reverse his progress in the community because his neighbors will demand self proof and not be much in sympathy with his mother's estimation or help.

However, here and there in many small ways he can be helped. If he thinks his situation is at least understood at home it will give him a double armor.

One thing I do suggest. If he can find one good friend at first it will help. But again here lies another danger. The friend himself may be persona non grata with the crowd and an ally may have to share in his misfortune. It is something to think about and work out as resourcefully as possible.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DONNA GABRIEL and MADELINE SIDDAL, who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters," are trapeze performers with Renfro's circus. DON DAVIL, the animal trainer, is in love with Donna who regards him merely as a friend. Madeline is in love with Con.

Five years before Madeline ran away from the middle-western farm where her grandfather, ANDER SIDDAL, lives. When the old man writes, asking her to spend the week-end at the farm, DONNA SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, takes Donna to the farm. Meanwhile Madeline goes to dinner with Con.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

A ROBIN, perched on the limb of an elm tree by her window, awakened Donna at sunrise. She stretched with a feeling of well-being that made every nerve throb with ecstasy. She could hear the cackle of hens and Mrs. Planter out in the yard calling, "Here chick! Here chick!" The fragrant aroma of coffee mingled with the sweeter odors of grass and dowers and warm, moist fields.

Donna crossed to the window and, kneeling beside it, rested her elbows on the sill. She lifted her head, drinking in the beauty of waving corn fields and the golden glow of the rising sun across the acres of growing grain. A man carrying two great buckets of frothy milk, followed by a dog, emerged from a barn. As he drew nearer, Donna recognized him. It was Bill in overalls, with bare, brawny arms and looking larger, more masculine than ever.

He disappeared into a summer house adjoining the kitchen. Donna rose and bathed with the cold water she found in a pink-sprigged pitcher set in a basin on the marble-topped commode. Then she dressed slowly. Donna was unbelievably hungry, yet loath to go below and confront in daylight the unsuspecting victims of her masquerade.

At last she descended the stairs. In the kitchen she found Mrs. Planter mixing batter for pancakes. The housekeeper greeted Donna with a brief nod and an audible sniff.

"You rise early," Donna said.

"Reckon you want some breakfast," Mrs. Planter answered.

"You'll have to help yourself. There's a heap to do, even if it is Sunday."

Donna poured coffee from an earthenware pot and sat down at the pine table, scrubbed shiny and white. Without speaking, Mrs. Planter set a plate of biscuits and a glass of jam before her.

"Is Grandfather up?" Donna asked.

"Winter or summer he's out of bed before five," Mrs. Planter told her, "but he sleeps a lot during the day. He's stubborn. A body can't do much with him. Maybe you could for a spell, but not long. Shrewd yellow eyes tried to read Donna's intentions. "Bill said this mornin'," Mrs. Planter went on, "that you was thinkin' some of comin' back here to stay. You wouldn't be happy. After livin' the fast life you have a farm would be pretty lonesome."

"Fast life!" Donna exclaimed.

"Why do you say that?"

"I haven't seen Grandfather this morning," Donna said.

MRS. PLANTER'S thin lips pursed. "I know something about circuses and show folks. Ain't it fast to come out before poor without your clothes and to cavort around in shameful fashion? Leastwise it seems fast to me."

"It's a matter of opinion," Donna said, determined not to lose her temper. "I feel myself fully clothed when I'm in the arena, and my life is as full of routine and duty as yours. At times it's very tiresome."

"Yes," doubtfully. "I says to Bill, 'Don't you bank on it. Madeline hated this place when she was a child. She'll hate it more now.' That's what I says to him."

Bill's entrance just then prevented Donna from replying. He looked glowing with health and he greeted Donna with a cheery "good morning."

"Gosh, it's a treat for sore eyes to see a pretty girl in the kitchen. If I'd known you were up I'd have made you help with the milking. Did the prize rooster get you out of bed?"

"I'm used to early rising," Donna retorted with a laugh.

"How about some butter cakes, Mrs. Planter? I'm starved."

Grumbling at the necessity of serving two breakfasts, the housekeeper put the grill on the stove and soon the big, airy kitchen was filled with the odor of wheat cakes and frying bacon. Bill insisted that Donna should join him in more coffee. When they had eaten their fill he took her arm and, leading her through the house, took her into the apple orchard.

"I haven't seen Grandfather this morning," Donna said, annoyed to discover how the beating of her heart accelerated when Bill's brown fingers touched her arm.

"He gets up with the birds but after early coffee he goes back to bed again for a snooze," Bill explained. "He'll be around in time for church though."

"I suppose you never attend services?"

"It isn't possible very often. Must I today?"

SHE was spared the ordeal of meeting any one who might remember the little red-haired girl who had run away from home, for when they returned to the house Grandfather announced he would say prayers and Bill could read aloud from the Bible and that he guessed the Lord would understand and excuse them from services because Madeline's stay in their midst was to be so short.

Sitting in the cool, sweet-smelling living room, Donna listened contentedly to Bill's low, melodious voice as he read aloud the verses that took on new meaning as she heard them and gave her strength and courage. As a child she had knelt at her mother's knee and said the prayer beginning "Now I lay me down to sleep. Later in hotels she had read Bibles left by the Glendens, but the reading had been only a pastime. For the first time in her life now the words of the great Teacher gave her something she wanted to cling to with a fervor that ached her.

"If only I could stay here all ways," she thought. "If only I really were Madeline Siddal and this old patriarch my grand-father!"

At nine o'clock next morning she bade farewell to Grandfather Siddal. There were tears in her eyes as his fingers caressed her cheeks. "God bless you for comin', Madeline," the old man murmured. "You'll come again?"

"Oh, yes, yes."

"The show life hasn't harmed you. You're sweeter than ever, child. Sweeter than ever."

Bill drove her back to Lebanon. He was silent all the way. Even at the station he had nothing to say, and when the train pulled in and he helped her up the steps to the platform he merely gave her his hand in parting and said he was glad to have had the opportunity to know her.

"Well—I'll see you again," she stammered.

"I hope so—but I don't really think you will come back."

A pane of glass separated them. Bill smiled and waved at her. Then, whirling abruptly, he crossed to his battered car and entered it. A film of tears obscured Donna's vision. She blinked them back resolutely and opened a magazine.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Take Advantage of Sales to Replenish Your Beauty and Medicine Cabinets

When the beauty cabinet has been replenished and refurnished and you have on hand all the preparations that are necessary to keep your skin youthful and attractive, it's an excellent idea to make a careful survey of the items that are needed in the regular bathroom medicine cabinet. These, too, have a direct relation to beauty.

Put down on a list not only the necessities that are missing but also the ones which are running low. Then, when the neighborhood drug or department store features a sale which includes some of the things you need, get them that day. Such careful planning is a big help to the budget.

When a store is running a "special" on your particular brand of toothpaste or toothpowder, why not get several tubes then? The same applies to the family's favorite brand of toilet soap. And to eye lotion which is also used by each member of the household.

Speaking of eye lotion, don't underestimate its importance. With summer coming on the air will be filled with dust and dirt and you should therefore bathe the eyes at least twice a day. Provide an eyecup for everyone in the house and teach each one to use it correctly.

Remember, You Can Also Eat Parsley!

By MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

The chemist are finding out things about parsley—such as that it has higher percentage of iron than spinach, for instance, which was a great surprise to most of us.

The dietitians, however, stand pat on their declaration that this flavorous green can never be eaten in such large quantities as spinach. Though, for that matter, you wouldn't need as much of it to get your daily iron quota.

There are ways to use parsley judiciously that most of us never think about, for until now we've used it

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Sliced bananas and oranges, cereal, cream, scrambled eggs, reheated rolls, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Shrimp salad, parsley sandwiches, old fashioned rice pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner: Planked pork chops with apples and pineapple, potato marbles in parsley butter, celery and cabbage salad, butterscotch pie, milk, coffee.

chiefly to make our meats and vegetables look pretty, and sometimes in parsley butter for fish and potatoes.

Parsley Butter and Sauce

Parsley butter, by the way, has other points—as a sandwich spread, for example.

Wash parsley and pat dry between towels. Mince finely or put through the fine knife of the food chopper. Combine one-half cup minced parsley with four tablespoons creamed butter. Add a few grains of salt and a little lemon juice if extra piquancy is needed. Spread on thin slices of whole wheat or white bread and garnish each sandwich with a tiny sprig of crisped parsley.

A plain white sauce made with milk or with half milk and half veal or fish stock, in the case may be, becomes parsley sauce when two or more tablespoons of minced parsley are added just before serving. If the parsley is allowed to stand long or boil in the sauce, it loses its bright green color.

There is a straight parsley that is used as greens. The branches should be stripped from the main stalk because this is tough and requires long cooking. Wash thoroughly and add a few tablespoons water to the kettle in which it is cooked. Cook uncovered and serve with butter and lemon juice. This variety of parsley is less pungent than the tightly curled varieties and makes an inviting dish.

Historic Greece

When I'm mincing and washing I like to remember that the cooks of ancient Greece recognized and made use of the pungent parsley. The Carthaginians found it in Sardinia and introduced the herb to the inhabitants of Marseilles. The Romans used it as a symbol of mourning, and even today there are various quaint superstitions connected with parsley in England and Scotland.

Even little children may have it finely minced with their baked potato or sprinkled over their soup. When it is used simply as a garnish, be sure it is well washed and crisped and encourage children to form the habit of eating it.

Omelets and scrambled eggs, deviled eggs, shirred eggs and baked eggs are made more interesting if generously seasoned with minced parsley.

The Ricest LAXATIVE for Busy People

Just as autos have replaced horses, science has developed and proven a new, more thorough and prompt-acting laxative called Feen-a-mint. Feen-a-mint is the delicious chewing gum laxative. It contains a laxative ingredient regularly prescribed by physicians. Feen-a-mint is better than old-fashioned laxatives, because chewing distributes the laxative uniformly into the system, thus insuring "full" action without shock or irritation. Even the delicate digestive organs of children. The prompt, gentle but complete action of Feen-a-mint does not interfere with usual duties. Did your system of constipation's headaches, sluggishness. Delay is dangerous—chew Feen-a-mint for constipation. 15c and 25c at druggists everywhere.

PELLEY'S PLAN

and black artillery boots.

He is a smiling, blue-eyed youth in appearance not beyond 25, with that fine light blond hair that is itself almost silver.

Spiritual Touch to Room

A small auditorium is visible through the doorway, and printed on a large plaque in the hall leading to it is a spiritual message signed "The Elder Brother" (a Silver Shirt designation of Jesus Christ).

Summerville's office is a large rectangular room, with tables littered with papers, clippings and correspondence. Through an alcove another man is visible, wearing a gray flannel shirt with a red "L" emblazoned on the breast.

He is dictating to one of a half dozen stenographers and clerks who are engaged on the business of the Shirts, of Liberation, and of Galahad College, the last mentioned now conducted mostly by mail.

Summerville is smilingly reluctant to be quoted.

"I can say, however, that the Silver Legion has no connection, direct or indirect, with the German Nazis. The only similarity is that both are fighting Communism.

"Further, I can definitely say that we are not selling shirts or equipment."

Deny Uniform Sale

The Silver Shirt uniform, apparently, consists only of a gray shirt with the scarlet "L"—blue breeches, Sam Browne belt, and boots to be added according to the taste and purse of the member.

Membership is given as $1, denial being made that it has been $10 plus a charge for uniforms.

"G. H. Q." at Asheville will give no estimate of membership, maintaining that no records are kept, though every member is supposed to have his national number.

One official here indicated that an estimate of 75,000 members would be "too low rather than too high."

Membership, said to be strongest in Southern California, is certainly almost non-existent in Asheville. Most residents here have never heard of the Silver Shirts, never seen one. It is plain that Asheville has been national headquarters only because it is the scene of Pelley's former activities, rather than because of any local following in the movement.

Raid Rumor False

The only near-hurry caused by the Shirts locally was about a month ago, when Police Chief W. J. Everett got a "reliable tip" that a group of local citizens was going in a body at 4 a. m. to Galahad College to seize and burn some of the Silver Shirt literature.

This was at a time when the literature was bitterly attacking the Roosevelt policies and NRA as a masked Jewish conspiracy to enfeeble the country and make it an easy prey to Communism.

Chief Everett's well-equipped force was on hand with eight squad cars, and plenty of tear gas, and lost a night's sleep to prevent any such informal criticism of Silver Shirt policies. But nothing happened.

Officials of the Silver Legion in Asheville are reluctant to discuss any of the spiritual adventures of Pelley before the launching of the Silver Shirts.

Mom on "Clairaudience"

They prefer that such matters as Pelley's ventures into "clairaudience" and ghostly audience remain undisclosed, "because these matters are likely to be misunderstood by those who have not been trained to understand them, and really have nothing to do with the Silver Shirt movement, anyway, being confined to an elect group."

One officer answered with a sly smile that "they laughed at Joan of Arc, too, when she heard voices."

In an upstairs room of the former clubhouse, Pelley makes his headquarters while in Asheville. He is a brook worker and a prolific writer, often sitting up most of the night at his typewriter and coming downstairs in the morning with an entire pamphlet or an almost complete issue of Liberation.

Not Be U. S. Citizen

Silver Shirt officials now insist that there are no requirements for membership, but to be "an American citizen bent on protecting the Constitution of the U. S."

That is, though the Protestant nature of the organization is made clear by all its literature, it does not lump Catholics and Jews together for opposition, like the Klan, but centers only on the Jews.

Further, however, of applicants regarding their financial resources are not discarded, "because we now have representatives in every locality who can personally O. K. applicants."

Incidentally, regarding German Nazi connections of the Silver Shirts, one man at G. H. Q. told me that "we have been considerably embarrassed by a flood of German publications and letters, especially since publication of magazine articles connecting us with Nazism. But we had to ignore them all. Nobody here needs German."

Pelley himself seldom has been in Asheville of late, and associates at "G. H. Q." indicate that usually they do not know where he is or when he will return.

Attacks Roosevelt

One of his few public appearances here, and the only one in which he sported the Silver Shirt of the order, was nearly a year ago, when he addressed a meeting of a local service club.

At this meeting Pelley wore a silver-gray shirt, and on the lower portion his blue enamel was his golden "No. 1." At that time he attacked President Roosevelt as a mere tool in the hands of international Jewish bankers and victim of an English plot to take us off the gold standard.

But the club members were not impressed. A little later at another meeting a burlesque of Pelley's speech was presented.

NEXT: William Dudley Pelley, "Chief" of the Silver Shirts, has had a remarkable life—and death. Pelley tells how he "died" five years ago, yet lived to found the Silver Shirts.

Holdup, Eh? Take That and That!

Bandits hold no terrors for E. C. Weber, Round Lake, Ill., bank president, who here demonstrates how he routed three would-be robbers who walked into his bank and announced a holdup. Shouting, "The hell it is," he dodged behind a bulletproof shield, and opened fire. The bandits fled and he followed, wounding one, who was captured, while the other two escaped.

To Wed? Ruth Won't Tell

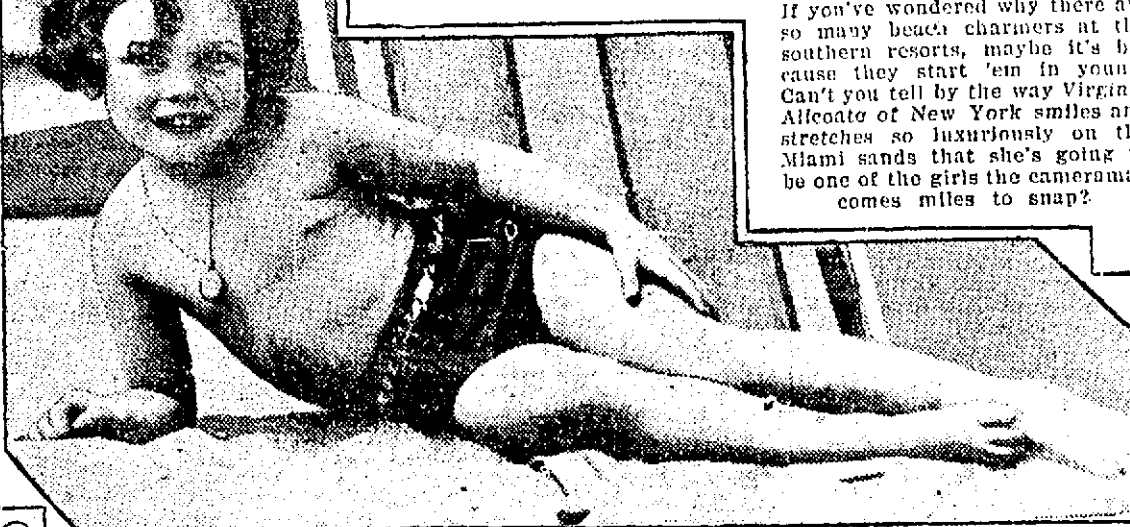

Sh-h-h! It's supposed to be a deep secret, but marriage is just around the corner for Ruth Channing, lovely movie actress, her friends say. They expect her to marry Hamilton McFadden, director, as soon as McFadden can get a divorce from his first wife. But Ruth, as you see, isn't telling her secret—yet.

Insull Chats With Guard on Homeward Voyage

The icy reserve which characterized Samuel Insull in the heyday of his utility might has thawed and the aged prisoner talks freely to reporters and passengers, and poses willingly on the S. S. Bank Bandit Is Shot, Captured

This would-be robber, Ellsworth Ferguson, is in jail, a bullet wound in one leg, because a bank president started to shoot instead of handing over his money. Ferguson was captured in an attempted robbery of the Round Lake, Ill., bank, his two companions fleeing after he was shot and seized by townsmen.

Killed in Fight With Dillinger

Victim in the Wisconsin machine gun battle in which John Dillinger, Indiana desperado, fought his way out of a police trap, is W. Carter Baum, Department of Justice agent from Chicago, who was shot to death.

Passes Dillinger Mercy Petition

"Amnesty" for John Dillinger if he surrenders is asked in a petition being circulated in his home town, Mooresville, Ind., and other Indiana cities. Donald Roe, above, bank clerk, is seeking signers to the plea, based on the contention that the bandit was given an unfair sentence on his first conviction, for robbing a Mooresville grocer.

Helps Dillinger In Indiana Raid

Identified as the gangster who accompanied John Dillinger in a raid on the Warsaw, Ind., police station, when the outlaws fled after seizing three bulletproof vests and two pistols, Homer Van Meter, above, is the target of an intensive search by Indiana posse. Van Meter is a Chicago gunman.

STYLE TO BOOT

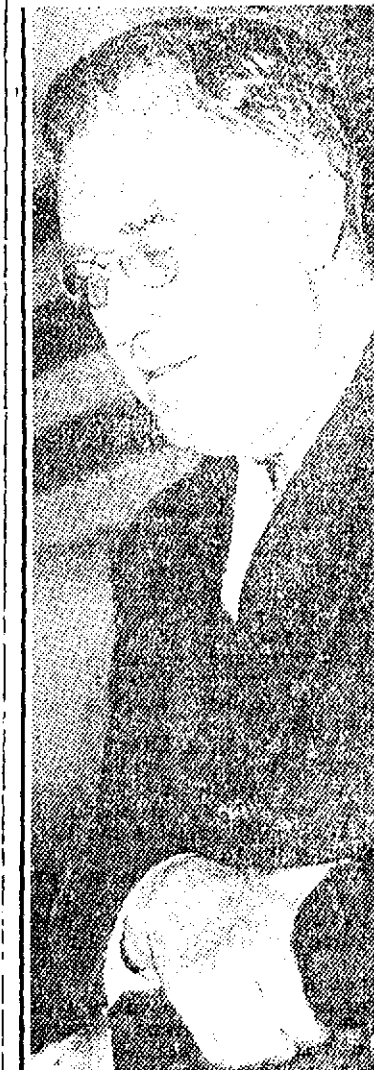

They may be tongueless, but these ankle-high white kid evening boots are the talk of the new fall and winter footwear styles for women. Piped with green and lacing up the front with a green and white cord, this pair was one of the original models displayed at the Shoe and Leather Show in New York.

Hawaii's Fairest Voted Lei Queen

It's a regal smile that Miss Lynette Amy flashes here, as she has been voted lei queen of Honolulu, University of Hawaii students awarding her the honor of the fairest daughter of the islands.

"Revolution? No, Evolution"

"Those who speak of revolution are wrong. What they should do is to drop the first letter of the word. We are going through evolution, not revolution." Speaking extemporaneously, President Roosevelt thus defended his New Deal policies when, as shown here, he addressed the Substinence Homestead show in the Department of Commerce building, Washington.

On the Track to Matrimony?

That there may be something to the rumor that Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Gertrude Lawrence, British actress, are engaged, you gather from the way they looked at each other when Doug came down to a London station to see Miss Lawrence off for Majorca. She was to spend a month's vacation there.

Strike; No Gas; So Hay Runs Auto.

It was a horse laugh on filling station strikers when this equipage moved on the streets of downtown Cleveland and amazed onlookers vowed that they heard Dobbin snicker as he paraded serenely along. When the gas tank ran dry, with all stations closed, the truck owner turned to hay power and went calmly on with his business.

Hollywood Backs Her for Queen

All the beauties in Hollywood are not film darlings, as Pat Campbell amply proves, posing here with the trophy she was given as a winner over 200 rivals for the title of Miss Hollywood. She will vie with other California girls for the crown at the state fair in Sacramento next autumn.

Mother, Sweetheart of Accused Youth

While Abraham Faber, 24-year-old youth accused of murder in a Needham (Mass.) bank holdup, was fighting for his life in bedham court, his aged parents submitted to a painful spinal operation in the hope of proving that their son's weakened physical and mental condition is hereditary. Mrs. Faber, grim and solemn, is shown at left with her son's sweetheart, Rose Kneller.

Texarkana Noses Out Hope 6 to 5

Bunt in 9th Inning Is Margin of Defeat for Storks

A perfect bunt in the ninth inning gave Goodyear Tremen a one-run margin and victory over the Storks Sunday afternoon at Texarkana, 6 to 5.

The bunt was laid down by Walker Henderson, shortstop, scoring Dallas Johnson from third base with the winning run.

The Storks hit hard Sunday but were unable to bunch enough of them. Carroll Schooley smashed out a homer and a pair of singles. His brother Vernon accounted for two hits. The Tremen took the lead in the first inning, bunting hit for four runs off "Blackie" Elliott. After the bad start he settled down and pitched effective ball in the remaining innings. The victory Sunday was the second for the Tremen over the Storks since the season opened.

After all—why shouldn't the people think that? The college has a Board of Trustees; the president is responsible to the trustees. If he's going to be responsible to the governor, then abolish the Board of Trustees and make the college a political football, openly and frankly.

THIS LAXATIVE

Cleanses Completely

... no bowel abuse

Cleanse bowels of waste matter more thoroughly, more completely with delicious Feen-a-mint, the chewing gum laxative. And you'll get quicker, surer relief from dizziness, headache and other constipation ills. Feen-a-mint acts more thoroughly because you chew it. Just as chewing prepares food for your stomach, so the chewing of Feen-a-mint distributes its laxative ingredient uniformly throughout the intestines to give a "full," more natural movement. Thus, Feen-a-mint never shocks the system nor abuses the bowels. Doctors themselves prescribe the laxative ingredient used in Feen-a-mint. Completely, thoroughly, Feen-a-mint empties and cleanses the bowels of putrid waste. As headache and dizziness go, you feel more active, energetic, fresh. Feen-a-mint contains no richness to upset stomach or to get stale. "Delay" is dangerous—chew Feen-a-mint for constipation. 15c and 25c at druggists.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL

AMENDMENT NO. 19

Referred to the People by the General Assembly in regular session assembled, 1933.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Arkansas and by the Senate of the State of Arkansas, a majority of all members elected to each House agreeing thereunto:

That the following is hereby proposed as an Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, and, upon being submitted to the electors at the next general election for Senators and Representatives, if a majority of the electors voting thereon, at such an election adopt such Amendment, the same shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, to-wit:

That Article 5 of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas be amended by adding thereto the following:

SECTION I. Not less than a majority of the members of each House of the General Assembly may enact a law.

SECTION II. None of the rates for property, excise, privilege or personal taxes, now levied shall be increased by the General Assembly except after the approval of the qualified electors voting thereon at an election, or in case of an emergency, by the votes of three-fourths of the members elected to each House of the General Assembly.

SECTION III. Excepting monies raised or collected for educational purposes, highway purposes, and the just debts of the State, the General Assembly is hereby prohibited from appropriating or expending more than the sum of Two and One-half Million Dollars for all purposes, for any biennial period; provided, the limit herein fixed may be exceeded by the votes of three-fourths of the members elected to each House of the General Assembly.

SECTION IV. In making appropriations for any biennial period, the General Assembly shall first pass the General Appropriation Bill provided for in Section 29 of Article 5 of the Constitution, and no other appropriation bill may be enacted before that shall have been done.

SECTION V. No expense shall be incurred or authorized for either House except by a bill duly passed by both Houses and approved by the Governor.

The provisions of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas in conflict with this Amendment are hereby repealed, and they are in conflict herewith, and this Amendment shall be self-executing and shall take and have full effect immediately upon its adoption by the electors of the State.

The above resolution was filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Arkansas on the 29th day of January, 1934.

Each elector may vote for, or against, the above proposed Amendment.

WITNESS MY HAND and Official Seal of this office this 28th day of March, 1934.

ED F. McDONALD,

Secretary of State.

eral two-year budget to 2½ million dollars.

No. 20 would prohibit the legislature from issuing bonds or otherwise pledging the state's credit except upon a state referendum, the only qualification being that the legislature might continue to refund debts already contracted by the state.

These proposals were announced by Governor Futrell in his campaign in 1932, and the legislature having followed out the governor's recommendations, they are now before the people for study and action.

Run-Off Primary Brings New Rules

Notice Served on All County Central Committees

LITTLE ROCK—Attention to Democratic County Central Committee officials was directed to amendments to party rules which govern the handling of the run-off primary, in letters mailed by Hervey G. Combs of Little Rock, secretary of the State Central Committee Saturday. The new amendments were adopted in March at a meeting of the state committee there.

The new county committee will not take office until after the run-off primary, and the second election will be conducted by the "old" committees.

County conventions will meet on the Monday after the primary to select delegates to the state convention.

State committee officials have recommended that local officers consider the cost of the second election in fixing the fees. Mr. Combs said state committee officials probably will make a second assessment for candidates who will participate in the run-off primary for state offices.

The same judges and clerks will officiate in both primaries, he said. The ticket will close at midnight May 15.

Thousands of Women Benefited By Cardui

The benefits many women obtain from Cardui give them great confidence in it. "I have four children," writes Mrs. J. L. Norred, of Lagrange, Ga. "Before the birth of my children, I was weak, nervous and tired. I had a lot of trouble with my back. I took Cardui each time and found it so helpful. Cardui did more to allay the nausea at these times than anything I have ever used. I am in very good health and believe Cardui did a lot of it." Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

When you pay the price of a Knee-Action car, you naturally want genuine Knee-Action and all that goes with it. You want the new gliding ride at its best. You want the huskiest, sturdiest front-end you can buy. And, of course, you want shock-proof steering. You pay for them all—but you get them all, in the low-price field, only from Chevrolet. The reason is simple. Fully-enclosed Knee-Action wheels are costly to build—so costly that only Chevrolet, world's largest builder of cars, can afford to make the necessary huge investment in new machinery—and still keep prices among the lowest of the low. Only Chevrolet has the resources and the assured volume of sales that permit this extra production cost. Chevrolet does it because Chevrolet believes that, to KEEP ON SELLING THE MOST CARS, YOU MUST KEEP ON BUILDING THE BEST.
